2019 International Conference on Nuclear Data for Science and Technology

May 19-24, 2019
China National Convention Center · Beijing

Welcome Message

Since the first symposium in Harwell (UK) in 1978, the series of International Conference on Nuclear Data for Science and Technology (ND Conference) have been the primary conference concerning nuclear data and its applications, both scientific and technical. In the forthcoming 2019, for the first time ever, the relay baton will be passed to China.

Nuclear data is a comprehensive investigational field connecting fundamental physics and nuclear applications, which has been an essence in the development of peaceful use of nuclear. In light of the increasingly paramount role of nuclear data in diverse fields of research and application, ND2019 will
