

Welcome Message of 22nd CCOS

Dear Colleagues,

In the beautiful season of early autumn, we are pleased to hold the 22nd Congress of Chinese Ophthalmological Society (CCOS) in Fuzhou during September 13-17, 2017. CCOS, the biggest and most important ophthalmological meeting in China, is going to have more than 10,000 international and domestic delegates this year.

With years of work under generations of ophthalmologists, presidents and members of Chinese Ophthalmological Society, the Chinese ophthalmology has had a rapid development and improvement. The academic communication and collaboration with colleagues and institutes abroad and at home also turns vivid and frequent. Every year, CCOS attracts near ten thousands of ophthalmologists and many international ophthalmological organizations as well. Now it has become a large-scale platform for academic communication, its international influence and academic status have been increased into a world advanced level.

The 22nd Congress of Chinese Ophthalmological Society is going to invite many top international and Chinese ophthalmologists to give lectures on ophthalmology, eye care and vision research. All the scientific programs including Continuing Medical Education will focus on the world up-to-date clinical and basic research achievements and development trend. During the meeting, more than 200 international and Chinese sponsors and exhibitors will also bring us the world advanced devices, instruments and techniques.

Wish the 22nd Congress of Chinese Ophthalmological Society held with a big success.

Thank you very much.

Yao Ke, M.D.

President of Chinese Ophthalmological Society

Chairman of 22nd Congress of Chinese Ophthalmological Society
